WRRI REQUESTS YOUR FINANCIAL SUPPORT...
We all value water. Whether for drinking, recreation, or business, our prosperity and quality of life depends on it. North Carolina’s Water Resources Research Institute (WRRI) works to protect our state’s water resources. We educate decision makers and train the next generation of water consumers, water scientists, and water managers. With a modest budget and a small staff, we leverage a lot to provide a robust research and training program.

We are requesting your financial support to offset the increased costs of the annual research conference. Your charitable donation will be accepted through the North Carolina State University.

STUDENT AWARDS
Cash awards are given to the winners of the university student poster presentation competition and the high school student water-themed art competition.

STUDENT ATTENDANCE AT THE WRRI CONFERENCE
We waive registration fees and assist in travel costs for full-time student presenters as an incentive for them to share their work in a professional environment.

COFFEE BREAKS AND RECEPTIONS
Two full days of learning, problem-solving, networking and presenting are hard work. We aim to keep the conference optimistic and solutions-oriented, and help participants enjoy themselves. Your sponsorship helps us host lunches, enjoyable breaks and an evening reception for participants to network and explore ideas learned during the day.

WHAT YOU GET FOR YOUR SPONSORSHIP
Sponsorship of WRRI’s annual research conference is beneficial to both WRRI and to you! Your donation allows us to continue offering the annual research conference. Sponsors will receive exposure to over 200 attendees from academic, government, non-government and private sector water resources organizations. Your organization’s name and logo will be highlighted throughout printed conference materials, featured on the conference website, and displayed on large screens during the event.
